

WILL ASK FURTHER
TIME FOR HEARING

Council Employees Seba A. Barnes to Assist in Cases Before Public Service Commission.

COMMISSION SENDS LETTER

Will Hear Arguments if Body has Authority to Alter Franchise Granted before Commission was Created.

Having received notice that the Indiana Public Service Commission has fixed Thursday, May 21, as the date for hearing arguments upon one legal phase involved in the cases filed by the city against the Interstate Public Service Company and the Seymour Water Company for a readjustment of rates and other conditions, the council held a special session Monday night to determine if additional legal talent should be provided. The question to be presented at the hearing, according to the advice of the Commission is whether or not that body has the authority to alter a franchise granted prior to the time the Commission was created by the state legislature.

City Attorney Albert H. Kasting recommended that because of the importance of the cases additional legal assistance be employed so that the various phases of the question to be argued could be presented as strongly as possible. Upon his recommendation Seba A. Barnes, a prominent attorney of this city, was engaged. Mr. Barnes agreed to assist the city attorney throughout the proceedings for $200 and traveling and hotel expenses while attending the hearings.

The city attorney, the members of the utilities committee and the mayor were of the opinion that because of the shortness of time the city would not be able to present its case on Thursday and it was agreed that a motion should be filed for an extension of time. Mr. Kasting explained that the Commission had informed the attorneys interested in the case that unless the hearing was held at the time stated it would not be possible to hold it until the first of June. Montgomery & Montgomery, of this city, have been engaged as attorneys for the Seymour Water Company. It was stated that this firm would be unable to appear at a hearing this week and would also ask for further time. This is the first letter received from the Commission stating as to when the hearing would be set or what question would be first discussed.

Mayor Ross seemed to think that the committee appointed this year by the council had been negligent in preparing for the case, but the members explained fully that they were powerless to push the cases faster than the commission desired and could not prepare for any hearing until the Commission had informed them what phase would be first taken up. The city attorney also explained that he had done everything he could to be prepared but like other legal proceedings the Commission took the initial step and the attorneys in the case were compelled to abide by the action taken.

In stating the purpose of the called meeting of the council Mayor Ross said:

"To the Honorable Common Council, City of Seymour:

"The purpose of this called meeting is to take some action is a matter that can be no longer postponed. This council in February of this year appointed a committee to invoke the aid of the Indiana Public Service Commission in an effort to get excessive our water and light rates adjusted. The committee failed to make a report for several meetings and were finally asked for one. They then stated they were making all necessary effort. Time passed and no report being made, they were again reminded. Attorney and engineer should be on the job, that work might be ready on call of the Commission. Three months now passed and no engineer or assistant attorney has been employed.

"Now comes the Indiana Public Service Commission and notifies the attorneys for both sides to appear before them Thursday of this week and argue the question of the rights of the Commission to pass on the adjustment of rates of public utilities, whose franchise was granted previous to the passage of the Indiana Utilities Bill.

"Now in the campaign last fall we were all agreed the state commission had absolute control over rates of all public utilities. In fact, the opposition gave this as a reason why the question should not be agitated locally, thereby engendering hard feelings in the community. We have letters in our possession from the Wisconsin, New Jersey and Illinois State Commissions stating in so many words their commissions regulate rates of all utilities, without regard to when their franchise was granted.

"While it was reported two months ago the state commission was not inclined to take up the question of adjustment of rates with utilities companies whose franchise antedated the public utilities bill, later there was rumor to the effect that some decision had been sighted that might enable them to adjust such rates. The fact that they have summoned the attorneys for both sides to appear before them and argue the case would indicate that they at least have an open mind on the subject. It accordingly behooves us to take advantage of this and make the best possible showing in the case. No lawyer can prepare for this in three days or three weeks. We accordingly request our committee to ask the state commission to postpone the water case until the electric light and gas cases are disposed of.

"In the meantime we may be able to interest some of our neighboring cities who are like oppressed and induce them to join us in an effort to get the case properly presented to the state commission. If we succeed in doing this they will probably wish a voice in the choosing of an attorney and might think it best to choose one who has specialized in franchises.

"We ask this in behalf of a community, half of whose residents who are able to take water are paying double the average price of ten neighboring towns. The other half though living in the city and paying taxes that should guarantee them city privileges are deprived of water, either through excessive prices or lack of ability of the city to compel extension of mains under the franchise.

"This state of affairs would be bad enough were it merely a question of dollars and cents but when you add to this the fact that probably half the people's health is jeopardized through lack of ability to get pure water.

FORGER WANTED BY PRINCETON POLICE

Harry Ebberts, Arrested Here Saturday, Said to Have Passed Worthless Check There.

SENT MESSAGE TO RELATIVES

Police Find That Prisoner's Home is at Ravenna, O.—Trial May be Called Wednesday.

Inquiry was made of Deputy Prosecutor Wesner today by an official at Princeton about Harry Ebberts, alias Morgan, who was arrested here Saturday afternoon for forgery. It was stated that Ebberts was wanted there for passing a worthless check at a clothing store. When arrested he told the local police that he had purchased the suit Friday and had given a forged check in payment for it.

Investigations by the police revealed that Morgan's real name was Ebberts and that he lived at Ravenna, O. He telegraphed his wife and mother and also an uncle of his arrest and asked them to come to his rescue. They are expected here today or Wednesday. He signed the name of Morgan to the checks and will be prosecuted under that alias.

Ebberts told the officials that he had had little experience in forging checks but the police are of the opinion that he has been working in several states and is wanted at a number of places. The outfit which he carried with him indicated that he had forged many checks and had a large supply of blank checks with him.

The police here have written to several towns and cities which were noted in his "schedule book" and Chief McCord is expecting answers to his letters in a few days. Ebberts was in Evansville the latter part of last week as indicated by an unmailed letter written on stationery from an Evansville hotel. The letter was dated May 16. He said he went to Evansville from Princeton.

Ebberts told the police that he was married and was the father of a four-year-old daughter. He is said to have stated that he left his home but a short time ago and did not intend to commit the forgeries when he departed.

Although he pleaded not guilty in circuit court the officials are of the opinion that he did this in order to gain more time. Had he pleaded guilty Monday he would have likely been sentenced at once. He is expecting assistance from his relatives and believes they will come to this city soon.

By certain remarks made in his conversation Ebberts has caused the police to become suspicious that he is wanted in at least one other state. He asked the police if he had committed a more serious offense in some other state if he would be returned there or would be tried on the charge here. An effort was made to get him to explain his question but he would not talk further on the subject.

BOARD OF REVIEW
TO MEET IN JUNE

Annual Session of the Board Will be Held to Determine Objections to Assessments.

IN SESSION FOR THIRTY DAYS

Telephone and Telegraph Companies Required to Appear Before State Tax Board.

Unusual activity is noticed at the office of the county assessor as the township assessors have completed their work and have filed their reports. The majority of the reports were filed several days ago.

The county board of review meets the first week in June and sits for thirty days. It will go over the assessments of the firms that are incorporated under the laws of the state and which do business in one place. The railroads, express companies, telephone companies, etc., that do an inter-township or county business are taken care of by the state tax board. The county board of review will also take up the mortgage exemptions that have been filed this year and go over them and make the proper deductions. These will be deducted from next year's taxes.

The county board will also hear people who believe that the assessment of their personal property is too high. It will also turn an open ear to people who believe that they have not been assessed enough. They have no power to act on the assessment or appraisal of real estate.

The four-year reappraisal of real estate will come next year and the assessors will have a busy time. The election this fall will likely place an entirely new set of men throughout the county in the assessor's department and the work next year for the appraisers will be exceedingly hard. Before the law was changed there were several holdovers each year and the assessors were equally divided between experienced and new men.

IMPROVEMENTS BEING MADE AT SEYMOUR WOOLLEN MILLS

New Boilers Have Been Installed and Chimney, 125 Feet High, is Being Constructed.

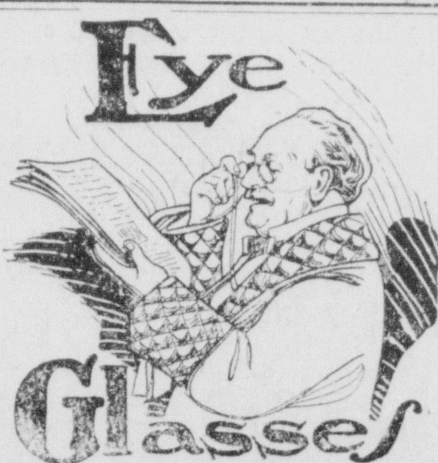

Extensive improvements are being made at the power plant at the Seymour Woolen Mills. New boilers are being installed and other machinery placed in position. The improvements are made at this time to furnish additional power in case the factory is enlarged.

A new smoke stack, probably the tallest in the city, is being constructed of buff radial brick. It is 125 feet high and the internal diameter is five feet. Especial attention has been given to the draft and when completed and the new boilers are in position practically all the smoke will be eliminated.

CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN PROVED
GREAT SUCCESS IN SEYMOUR

Committee Closes Its Work and Solicits Subscriptions to Pay for Flowers Used.

The Clean-up Committee held its final meeting Monday afternoon at the mayor's office and arranged for the inspection of the city to be done by the city officials who have charge of the street and alley work. Hauling the debris proved so much larger task than was anticipated that it was not completed until last Saturday, requiring over a week to do the hauling. Mayor Ross estimates that about five hundred loads were hauled to the dump north of the city.

The enthusiasm with which the school children took hold of the campaign was worthy of comment. Four hundred blooming plants were distributed in the public and parochial schools. Each child who secured the signature to five cards was given a plant which they can care for during the summer as their own.

The expense of the Clean-up Campaign was $24.75. Of this amount $16.00 was for 400 flowers for the school children and $8.75 for printing 4,000 pledge cards. To meet this expense the Civic League which was organized two or three years ago turned over to the committee $13.07, the total sum remaining in its treasury. This leaves a balance of $11.68 to be raised to complete the payment of the expense. The Daily Republican was requested to ask that persons, wishing to contribute a quarter, half dollar or dollar to help meet this expense, leave the amount at the Republican office and due credit will be given them for their contribution. This will enable the committee to pay the bill for flowers and for printing at once. The amount is small and a contribution from a number of our people will readily meet the entire amount. Subscriptions may be left at this office at any time and due credit will be given.

GUARDSMEN VACCINATED
AGAINST TYPHOID FEVER

Vaccine is Administered by Company Physician at Orders of Adjutant General of Indiana.

In compliance with the order of the adjutant general of the Indiana National Guards the members of the local company are being vaccinated as a preventive against typhoid fever. The vaccine is administered to the men by Dr. H. R. Luckey, who is medical examiner of the company.

The officers and eight enlisted men took their first dose Sunday afternoon, and the remainder of the company must take the first dose on Wednesday evening of this week. This order makes it compulsory and all members have to take the treatment. Those who took their first dose Sunday afternoon report that they feel no ill effects from taking it. Company commanders obtained the vaccine through The State Board of Health.

REPORTED FORCES
MEET AT SALTILLO

Federals and Constitutionalists Said to be Waging Battle—Strict Censorship Established.

VILLA'S ENEMIES PLAN PLOT

Rumored that Effort will be Made to Overthrow Him as Soon as Saltillo is Captured.

By United Press.

Jaurez, Mexico, May 19.—According to dispatches received here it is believed that the battle of Saltillo is being waged. Gen. Villa has established a strict censorship and as a result no messages have been received regarding the fighting. Nothing has been heard directly from him since Sunday and correspondents have filed no bulletins since Monday morning. All messages were censored during the battle of Torreon.

It is rumored that a plot has been made against Villa and that the Rebels plan to overthrow him as soon as the city of Saltillo is taken.

It is known that in the Rebel ranks there are a large number who are opposed to Villa's leadership and are anxious to see him taken from his place of importance. It is not known what effect the proposed plot will have upon Carranza's position but it is believed that an effort will be made to overthrow him also. Villa has been commanding the Constitutionalists' army at the direction of Carranza.

Another report says that Carranza and Villa are unable to agree about certain army movements and that the former is fearful that Villa will attempt to assume the complete leadership in case he is victorious in the conflict at Saltillo.

PROTESTS FROM CANDIDATES

Demand For Place on County Ticket on the Part of the Democrats, There Being No Less Than Seventy Aspirants of This Political Complexion, Necessitated Running Names in Two Lines on Voting Machines.

South Bend, Ind., May 19.—Never in the history of St. Joseph county has there been such a long list of candidates to seek nominations for public office as went before the people in today's primaries. The Progressives, Democrats and Republicans all have full tickets, but the Democrats, confident of success because of the refusal of the Progressives to line up with the Republicans, brought out from five to eight candidates for each office, no less than seventy Democrats being in the field. It was necessary to run the names in two lines on the voting machines, and this at first drew a storm of protests from the candidates who failed to draw places on the first line, they demanding a return to the paper ballot.

PENNSYLVANIA IS CENTER OF THE POLITICAL STAGE

Thousands of Voters in That State Visit Polls to Select Candidates For Various Offices.

By United Press.
 Harrisburg, Pa., May 19—Fore-runner of the first election of a United States Senator in Pennsylvania by popular vote, thousands of voters of the state visited the polls in their respective communities today and cast ballots in the annual spring primaries. Five tickets were in the field: Republican, Democratic, Washington, Socialist and Prohibition. The race for nominations for United States Senator and governor, were the center of general interest. Candidates for Lieutenant governor, secretary of internal affairs, Supreme Court judgeships and Congress (district and at-large), were in the field, however, and added to general and sectional interest.

Boise Penrose held the center of the stage. He was seeking from the public directly for the first time an endorsement of his work of years in the United States Senate. He was opposed for the Republican nomination by J. Benjamin Dimmick, of Scranton. Upon the same party's ticket for governor was Martin C. Brumbaugh, of Philadelphia; Willard Ritter and Edward Wood, of Philadelphia and Joseph Cauffiel, of Johnstown. While the rivalry between the Republican candidate has been keen, the nominations of Penrose and Brumbaugh were considered most probable from the beginning of the fight and it has at no time assumed the bitterness manifest in the Democratic ranks.

Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer, of Stroudsburg, and Vance McCormick, of Harrisburg, who have had throughout the support of the national administration for the Senate and governorship respectively have been actively opposed within the party. Henry Budd of Philadelphia has been pitted against Palmer and Michael J.

Ryan of Philadelphia against McCormick. The Washington (Progressive) party practically united on Gifford Pinchot for United States Senator and William Draper Lewis, of Philadelphia for governor, according to many of the leaders. Charles N. Brumm, of Pottsville, was said to have developed strong support for the latter nomination in opposition to Dean Lewis. For lieutenant governor, leading candidates of the three big parties were Frank McClain, Republican, of Lancaster; William T. ("Farmer") Creasy, Democrat, of Catawissa, and Percy F. Smith, Washington, of Pittsburgh.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Keach and Misses Mary, Pearl and Willa Teckemeyer went to Tampico, Monday to attend the musicale given at the Christian church there last night at the close of the two weeks' revival meetings conducted by Evangelist J. Bennett and his singer, Mr. Sechrist. The Misses Teckemeyer assisted in the musicale. Several from here attended the meeting.

Mrs. Elizabeth Gilbert, widow of the late James Gilbert, died at 5 o'clock this morning at the home of her brother, Charles W. Welliver, in Redding township. She had been a sufferer with tuberculosis for many years but her condition did not become critical until the day before her death. Mrs. Gilbert was sixty-four years of age and was a native of Redding township where she spent her entire life. The funeral services will be held at the Christian church at Redding, Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Harvey Rust. Interment at the Redding cemetery.

Sick Headache.

Mrs. A. L. Luckie, East Rochester, N. ENEMY SUPRISED AT AMERICAN WAY

Mexicans Puzzled Over Attitude of U. S. Troops in Caring for Wounded at Vera Cruz.

GOVERNMENT WAS IMPROVED

Under Military Control City Was Safer Than at Any Time in Its History—Stores Reopen.

Vera Cruz, May 10—Mexicans still are puzzled over the attitude of the United States troops here. They can't quite figure the answer. Not a man jack of them but was certain that with occupation of this seaport by hostile troops would come the pillage and looting that generally marks capture or taking of a city or town by Mexican soldiers. They have become used to this procedure during the our or five years of revolutions and uprisings. They were vastly amazed, therefore, when the American troops not only did not follow up their occupation with disorders, but actually made Vera Cruz safer and more pleasant to live in than at any time in the city's history.

These Mexicans down here simply could not understand it when the American troops cared for the wounded Mexicans as tenderly as they cared for their own wounded. They could not understand when, after a really wonderful exhibition of two-handed fighting process, the youthful marines and jackies, as soon as some semblance of order was established, went calmly about the work of feeding the women and children of the men at whom they had so recently been shooting.

The Mexicans laughed scoffingly when they were told that the marines and sailors would not immediately attack Gen. Maas, the Federal general, and march on Mexico City. When the Americans didn't, again they could not quite get it.

"Oh, but wait until the regular troops arrive under your Gen. Funston," they then said. "When your Gen. Funston comes, it will be different. Americans merely have been waiting to go into action until the regular soldiers come." Everyone was firmly convinced this would be the program, and the ultimate limit of astonishment was reached after the regulars had been here a week without the expected advance toward the capital.

It is only now that Vera Cruzans are beginning to realize that American soldiers are giving them the best city government that ever have had. Some of them, still with hatred ranking in their hearts against the "Gringos," may not admit this aloud, but nevertheless Mexicans from the Capital and other interior cities have flocked to Vera Cruz for safety.

All this, of course, has bred great respect and no little welcome toward American fighting men, and American fighting methods. But there still is another feature that these Mexicans like about the situation. The American marines, jack-tars and regulars, not to mention the great influx of refugees, form an army of buyers who have intense delight to merchants. The best of it is that the money the 10,000 or more American troops spend in local shops is good, United States money, and not depreciated Mexican coin. All the shops are open again and today the natives dealers, caterers, restaurateurs and the like are enjoying such prosperity as they never enjoyed before. The great demand for food stuffs to say nothing of clothing has sent prices sky high.

Peons are being given regular work on the docks and other points on the waterfront, and on the streets. They are paid at the rate of sixty cents gold per day, an unheard of laborer's wage in Vera Cruz.

All of the native enterprises, characteristic of Mexico are flourishing. The burro peddlers, corresponding to the push cart vendors of New York's Lower East Side are out en masse. On all the streets donkeys loaded down with chickens may be seen. The fowls—mainly of the dominecker variety—alive, are swung heads down, from all sides of the saddle and across the neck of the burro. The vender sits in the saddle, and thus rides through the residence districts, where the house-wives come out into the street and bargain for the fowls.

Milk, ice, mineral water, fresh fruits and beef and mutton are peddled in the same manner, the vender stringing his wares all over his beast, donkey or horse, as the case may be. The sight of such a vender never fails to excite the interest and mirth of the blue jackets and the American colony.

All of the shops along the Avenida Independencia—The Fifth Avenue, or F street of Vera Cruz—and around the Plaza, are open again and doing a thriving business. Vera Cruz, never before saw such a run on picture post cards and souvenirs of all kinds. And the haberdasheries, the tailor shops are doing a thriving business. American refugees from Mexico City were forced to flee with only the clothes on their backs and had to stock up on their arrival. And the army of correspondents and photographers from the United States who came down on warships had barely time enough to get away with the clothes they wore. All these people are buying outfits of every description.

Gilliland to Speak.

By United Press.

Indianapolis, May 19—The thirty-fourth annual convention of the Indiana Funeral Directors' Association which opened here today has drawn to this city a majority of the active funeral directors of Indiana. An effort has been made recently to increase the membership, and programs of this convention were sent to every funeral director in the state. The convention meets at the Severin hotel.

Wednesday night has been set apart for a general social affair at the Severin when the roof garden has been offered to the association. Strickland Gilliland, humorist, will be one of the entertainers. The Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra will also appear. President Ivory Tolle, head of the association says this will be the biggest meeting of the association has ever held.

THE CITY CASES.
Within a short time the cases filed by the city against the local utilities companies for a readjustment of rates and a change in other conditions will be called before the Indiana Public Service Commission. Because of the large number of patrons of the utilities and the natural desire to obtain the service at reduced rates much interest is shown in the outcome of the cases.

Sometime ago the council appointed two of its members and the city attorney as a committee to prepare and file the petitions. Within due time the complaints were laid before the Public Service Commission but that body has not stated until the last few days when a hearing would be called or upon what legal phase the arguments would be presented. The commission handles these cases in the order they are filed and notifies the petitioners what points will be first determined. In this case the commission has stated that it will hear arguments upon the question whether the commission will have the right to alter a franchise which was granted prior to the time the commission was created by the state legislature.

We believe that the majority of citizens are desirous of having the cases conducted in a business like way so as to avoid all the unnecessary expense possible. The committee has acted wisely in postponing the appointment of one or more high salaried engineers to prepare detailed reports until it is found whether such reports will be considered. The first action of the commission is to determine whether it has the right to alter the franchise. If the city should lose in the first skirmish it will have no other day in court, and all additional expense would be needless. While the Mayor is insistent that there should be no delay it does appear that the committee is keeping in close touch with the developments and is waging the fight for lower rates on the merits of the city's case and not because the members have a personal feeling in the matter.

We believe, however, that better results would be obtained if the Mayor were in complete harmony with the committee who has been placed in charge of the petitions. During the past few weeks the Mayor has shown a tendency to criticize actions of the committee rather than to discuss with them in a businesslike way the manner in which the cases shall be presented. In such cases co-operation is worth a great deal more than antagonism. In final dealing the citizens are desirous of securing better rates rather than of evening up old scores with the stockholders of some of the corporations.

NEW USES FOR PUBLIC LIBRARY

Recent Departures In Various Parts of the Country.

ONE IS TO AID THE FARMER

Co-operation With the Parcel Post In Scheme to Lower the Cost of Living. Conserving Public Health One of Its Missions at Grand Rapids, Mich., and St. Joseph, Mo.

That the public library of the present day is engaged in many lines of activity which concern the happiness, comfort and even the health of the people in their communities will be demonstrated at the thirty-sixth annual conference of the American Library association in Washington May 25-29.

For example, a number of librarians have taken advantage of the latest ruling which permits the circulation of books to rural communities through the parcel post, and the still further use of the parcel post contributes to lower the cost of living since it places library patrons in direct communication with producers on nearby farms.

As a result of a circular announcement to farmers within a radius of 150 miles of Washington, sent out by the postmaster, the public library is receiving quotations on farm produce deliverable by parcel post.

Bulletin Farm Prices.

These quotations are posted on the library's bulletin board so that the offerings of nearby farmers are brought to the attention of the 2,000 or more persons who daily visit the institution.

At Grand Rapids, Mich., the public library is doing a notable work to conserve the public health, particularly the health of babies. It issues to all mothers whose names appear in the official register of births a carefully selected list of books, these lists being under the caption, "Better Babies: Some Books For Mothers."

The public library at Newark, N. J., has constituted itself a valuable information bureau and at least 300,000 questions are answered every year. This library solicits the asking of questions in its literature by requesting its patrons to say if they "want to know the names of dealers in hides in Rio de Janeiro," "the price of hops in Melbourne," "the demands for cotton in Tokyo," etc.

Invite Traveling Men.

Many libraries in Massachusetts are going out of their way to make traveling men comfortable. One library in the state has a card on the back of every bedroom door of the local hotels stating that visitors may borrow books from the public library on securing a card of introduction from the hotel manager.

The public library at St. Joseph, Mo., is taking an active part in park and boulevard, sanitary, vacant lot gardening and anti-tuberculosis campaigns by furnishing a portable stereopticon and appropriate slides.

TAMPICO A RICH PRIZE.

Oil City Regarded as the Key to Mexico's Commerce.

Tampico, now in possession of the Mexican rebels, is the oil metropolis of Mexico and the safest port on the gulf of Mexico. The city is built on low lying, sandy soil and stretches along the Panuco river. Before oil was discovered near Tampico it was a small Mexican village with no industries. When oil was found American and foreign capital changed all this. The harbor, which was a shallow and remote roadstead, was converted into a safe and important harbor, American engineers brought stone from the mountains, more than seventy miles away, and two great breakwaters were built, a thousand feet apart and a mile and a half long. Tampico is seven miles up the Panuco river, and now the freight steamers can cross the bar and tie up at the wharves in the city itself.

The city is an odd mixture of old Mexico and modern America. There are the docks, railroads, steamers, stores and oil wells built by Americans, and in the old section of the city there are the churches, the jail and the plaza just as they were a hundred years ago. The Mexicans from up the Panuco river still come down in their dugout canoes and trade with the people of the city, and it is not unusual to see these canoes rocking in the wash of a hustling motorboat carrying supplies to the oil fields.

Tampico is said to command most of the commerce of Mexico City and that of a great number of mining camps and manufacturing centers in the interior. This, added to its great oil industry, has made the city a prize for which the rebels and federals have fought since last December.

Not Midway or Pike, but El Camino.

The main avenue of concessions, which at the Chicago World's fair was called the Midway and at the St. Louis exposition the Pike, has been named El Camino at the Panama-Pacific exposition. The phrase is Spanish. It means "The Highway" and is designed to recall "El Camino Real" ("The King's Highway"), which the Spaniards built the length of the state, with a mission at the end of each day's journey.

DEVASTATING FLAMES SWEEP LUMBER CAMPS

Extensive Forest Fires In Northern Wilderness.

Milwaukee, May 19.—Late reports from the northern wilderness of Wisconsin and upper Michigan tell of extensive forest fires in many sections. Near Escanaba, on Lake Michigan, the villages of Alfred and Larch have been wiped out with seven lumber camps. The villages of Lathrop and Brampton were threatened when fire cut off telegraphic communication last night. Near Calumet, on Lake Superior, much timber is being destroyed in Keweenaw and Houghton counties. Destroyed bridges have forced detouring of railroad trains near Superior, all South Shore trains moving over the Northern Pacific.

NOT COMMUNITY PROBLEM

Governor Advises Counties to Let State Tackle Flood Prevention.

Indianapolis, May 19.—Believing that flood prevention is a state rather than a community problem, Governor Ralston has issued a statement in which he advises that the question be left to the state flood commission which he appointed recently. He expresses the opinion that it would be a waste of energy and money for flood prevention committees in various counties to attempt to deal with the problem in view of the fact that the state will employ engineers to do the work.

Governor Ralston has agreed to allow the state flood commission to draw on his emergency fund to the amount of $10,000. The governor expressed the hope that the necessary expenses incident to an intelligent investigation and report will not exhaust the amount set aside, but he made it plain that he desires that the work of the commission be thorough.

ADDITIONAL PAINTINGS FOR THE ART EXHIBIT

Several of the Foremost Painters of The Country Will be Represented in Seymour.

Each day adds to the interest that is manifested in the coming art exhibit which the Seymour Art League will hold at the high school building beginning Tuesday, May 26. In addition to the painters whose work has been mentioned are many others who will be represented in the exhibit here.

Leon Antoine Makielski, of South Bend, who is recognized as one of the foremost portrait painters in the country is sending one of his best portraits, that of L. Clarence Ball.

Florence Bradshaw Brown, of Indianapolis, has sent a group of paintings, among which are the titles, "Down by the Sea" and "I Saw a Ship a Sailing." She has won considerable fame as a painter of marine subjects.

Carl Graf of Indianapolis, sends one of his paintings concerning which the Art Journal makes the comment that he "has almost no rival as a child life painter, and his painting, 'Children at the Fountain' is the proper vehicle upon which to exercise this talent."

Marie Goth, of Indianapolis, has contributed two interesting character studies, "The Lace Maker" and "The Blonde Girl." Both are well done and will attract attention during the exhibit.

The management are pushing the work of preparation as rapidly as possible and will have everything in readiness for the opening next Tuesday night.

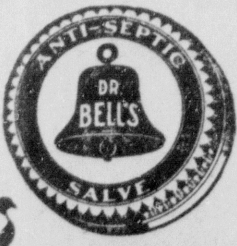

Republican Township Convention.

A mass convention of the Republicans of Jackson township will be held Friday evening, May 22, 1914, at 8 o'clock at the city building, Seymour, Indiana, for the purpose of nominating candidates for township trustee, township assessor, justices of the peace and constables to be voted for at the general election to be held Nov. 3, 1914.

"BIG TALK" FOLLOWED BY HASTY RETREAT TO SAFETY

William Allman Said to Have Made Boast but Did not Wait to Give a Demonstration.

After declaring that he could thrash Albert Baker and John Loundermilk, William Allman decided to postpone the demonstration and took to his heels and fled. At least this was the story heard by the police when the three men were arrested. Baker and Loundermilk were charged with intoxication and each fined $1 and costs. A charge of provoke was preferred against Allman and he pleaded not guilty.

According to the story related to the police Allman walked by the other two men and made some remark to them. One told him to "go on and peddle his papers" which caused Allman to reply that he was a better man than both of them. At this point in the comedy the two men grabbed bricks and started after Allman. He did not wait to prove his contention and was not located by the police until this morning.

WORK ON IMPROVEMENT ON PINE STREET IS STARTED

City Engineer Douglass Appointed Inspector by Council—Question of Re-enforcement.

Work on the improvement of Pine street between Sixth and Seventh streets has been started. Harry Marberry has the contract which was awarded last December.

At the meeting of the council last night City Engineer Douglass was appointed inspector for the street. It is thought the work will require about a week. Some of the councilmen were in favor of the city buying the wire to re-enforce the street as it was believed that such streets were more durable than those constructed without the re-enforcement. Those in favor of the plan stated that the city would have to maintain the street and make the repairs after the expiration of the five year maintenance bond. The wire will cost about $80, it is estimated. However, the council adjourned without taking action on the motion.

Goodbye Washboard Goodbye Rubbing Goodbye Lye, Soda

Thousands of Housewives Raving Over New Clothes-Cleaning Wonder
WASHEE WAFERS

The most wonderful clothes cleaner the world has ever seen is the new discovery, WASHEE WAFERS. It acts on a new scientific principle as simple as it is remarkable. Imagine—no lye,

"No More Slavery
and Eaten-Up

no caustic soda, no acid, no potash, no alkali. Yet it cleans in 20 minutes your week's big wash, without your having to touch a hand to water, without any rubbing of clothes whatever, without the need of a back-breaking washboard or clothes-tearing, tiresome, keep-a-grinding washing machine. Just a WASHEE WAFER mixed with the wash water does it all. It makes the whole boilerful of water alive with millions of little steam globules which are continually exploding. Every atom of dirt in every part of the clothes, even the dirt ground into the wristbands and other places of greatest wear, comes right out, doing more than the hardest kind of rubbing or the strongest lye could ever do.

They clean woolen, cotton, linen, muslin, the finest laces, all with the same wonderful ease. They will make your clothes whiter and cleaner than you ever saw them before. There is no more to do but rinse out the clothes and hang them up to dry.

WASHEE WAFERS, 4 in a package, enough for 4 big washings, sold at all grocers', 10c a package, or sent direct by THE REYEM CO., Wabash, Ind.

SUDDEN DEATH OF JOHN L. GRIFFITHS

Prominent Indian Expires at London Post.

London, May 18.—John L. Griffiths, who has been consul general of the United States at London since May 31, 1909, died suddenly at 9:30 o'clock Sunday night at his home in Lowndes street in this city. Mr. Griffiths had dined out and returned to his home early and went to bed. He had retired only a short time when he died.

Mr. Griffiths had not been well for some time, but was able to attend to his office duties and keep his engagements. He was ill in Paris at Easter, but his health had improved since that time.

Mr. Griffiths was born in New York city on Oct. 8, 1855, but his home was in Indianapolis. He was well known and popular with Americans in London and was energetic in looking after the interests of his countrymen.

Mr. Griffiths was appointed consul to Liverpool in 1905. He made many friends in Liverpool and became a prime favorite in the government circles of England. In May, 1909, he was named by President Taft as consul general at London, succeeding Robert J. Wynne. The consul generalship at London formerly made its occupants wealthy in fees. A few years ago the fee system was abolished and since then the office has been on a straight salary of $12,000 a year. Of late years Mr. Griffiths had devoted much of his time to writing a comprehensive review of the life of the late President Benjamin Harrison.

Number of Voters in Indiana.
Indianapolis, May 18.—A tabular statement showing the number of voters in each township and county of the state is being prepared in the office of the auditor of state to be placed before the general assembly next January for its use in making a new legislative apportionment. The total number of voters in the state is shown to be 792,833, in comparison with 745,254 in 1907, when the last enumeration was taken.

Drank Concentrated Lye.
Nottsville, Ind., May 18.—Rena, fifteen-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Goodnight, is dead from the effects of drinking concentrated lye. The mother was using the lye in her housework and left the can on the floor, where the child found it.

EARLY SOLUTION PROMISED

From Word Received in Washington Through Diplomatic Channels It Is Apparent That Mexican Dictator Sees No Way Whereby He Can Hold His Place and That His Envoys Have Been Instructed Accordingly.

Washington, May 19.—In Washington the belief is growing that the Niagara Falls conference will result speedily in an agreement for the elimination of Huerta from the Mexican situation.

It has been learned definitely that the Mexican delegates to the Niagara Falls conference are prepared to go to the extent of this concession if an agreement cannot be reached on other grounds. Word also has reached Washington from reliable quarters in Mexico City that Huerta has given his commissioners authority to go to this extreme length in reaching a peaceful adjustment of the difficulties. This later information came through diplomatic channels to one of the foreign representatives in Washington. It is in keeping not only with advices received here from the Mexican capital last week, but hints dropped by the Huerta delegates during their stay in Washington.

Washington officials expect to see the Mexican delegates after a few preliminary parleys agree to the elimination of Huerta and the restoration of constitutional government in Mexico under certain conditions. These conditions, it is understood here, will contemplate giving Huerta an equal voice with Carranza in the establishment of a temporary government in Mexico City pending the holding of a constitutional election.

Persons who have talked confidentially with Mexico's representatives say that they will enter the Niagara Falls conference in the most liberal spirit and with every disposition to make reasonable concessions.

GIVEN A WARM WELCOME

Governor General of Canada Sends Greeting to Mediators.

Niagara Falls, May 19.—All is in readiness for the meetings of the men who are to try to find a solution to the Mexican tangles. Tomorrow, under the roof of the Clifton hotel, from the top of which proudly flies the Union Jack, and around which will stand a guard of British soldiers, the South American mediators will meet the delegates of General Huerta and the representatives of the United States.

The Duke of Connaught, governor general of Canada, sent the following message to Ambassador Da Gama on his arrival here: "As governor general, I welcome you on your arrival on Canadian soil and express my fervent hope that the efforts of yourself and your colleagues to preserve peace may meet with speedy and lasting success."

The ambassador immediately sent the following reply to the duke: "I earnestly thank your royal highness for your cordial words of welcome and your good wishes for the success of our work of international good will. We will be happy in being able to associate the good results of our efforts with the name of the liberal and civilized country which, under the guidance of your royal highness, grows rapidly for the glory of the empire and the honor of our continent."

Exile Under Armed Guard.

Vera Cruz, May 19.—Dr. Aureliano Urrutia, who was Huerta's minister of interior for three months last year, has arrived at Vera Cruz, having slipped out of Mexico City with his wife. Armed soldiers are guarding him from infuriated Vera Cruzans while General Funston is awaiting orders from Washington whether to allow him to remain here or to ship him out of the country as an undesirable citizen.

CONSPIRACY TO SWINDLE

Is Alleged in This Trial Involving a Charge of Arson.

Washington, Ind., May 19.—Much interest in Daviess and adjoining counties is centered in the trial of Perry Drake of Sullivan and Dr. D. V. Wolfe, Albert M. Perkins and Van Allen of Daviess county, charged with conspiracy to commit arson and conspiracy to swindle an underwriter, now in progress in the Daviess circuit court.

The defendants are prominent in this part of the state. Dr. Wolfe is a veterinary surgeon and formerly lived at Sullivan. Perry Drake is a prominent farmer and stock raiser of Sullivan county, and Van Allen and Albert M. Perkins are well known farmers and stock raisers of Daviess county.

The case regards the burning of a barn on the Van Allen farm in which several stallions died.

ROBERT J. KERR

Late Civil Governor of Vera Cruz Calls on the President.

Washington, May 19.—Robert J. Kerr of Chicago and Mexico City, who was provisional governor of Vera Cruz for a short time following the entrance of American forces into that city, has arrived in Washington and called at the White House. He expressed a desire on his arrival in Washington to lay information relating to Vera Cruz conditions before the president.

BATTLE BETWEEN THE EAST AND THE WEST

Are Asiatics Or Europeans to Control World?

Tokio, May 19.—A sensation was created here by a statement recently made at Wellington, N. Z., by Sir Ian Hamilton, inspector general of the British overseas forces, in which he said among other things that the Pacific was the meeting ground of continents where the question might be decided of whether the Asiatics or the Europeans were going to guide the destinies of the world.

The Nichi Nichi, in commenting on this statement, declares that Japan has no warlike designs and is merely striving to live peacefully on an equal footing with the whites. "Nevertheless," adds the paper, "we must prepare to stand alone to face the white races in battle. We must inform the other Asiatic countries of the fearful consequences of the prejudices and unrighteous attitude of the whites and call upon them to co-operate with Japan for our common defense."

Villa Approaching Saltillo.

Torreon, May 19.—Except for reports of minor skirmishes with federal outposts driven back from Ramos Arispe and Flora toward Saltillo by vigorous rebel onslaughts, no news of fighting has reached headquarters. Villa's army is now approaching the city of Saltillo, hemming it in on the north and west.

Used Fish Spear on Victim.

Knox, Ind., May 19.—Frank S. Learmon, proprietor of a theater at Hamlet, was stabbed with a fish spear and probably fatally injured by James Chamberlain, a young farmer, who was ejected from the place for disorderly conduct.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

All is quiet at Tampico and conditions unchanged, according to reports from Admiral Badger.

After an absence of eighteen months due to illness, Senator Culberson of Texas has resumed his seat in the senate.

Former United States Senator J. B. Foraker has formally announced that he will again make the race for the United States senate.

General Funston has ordered all American civilians who insist upon remaining in Vera Cruz to register at the United States consulate.

Tepec, a town on the west coast of Mexico, has fallen into the hands of the rebels. Fighting continues in a desultory manner at Mazatlan.

Frederick W. Opel, aged thirty-nine, a farmer of Jasper, Ind., killed himself in a St. Louis sanatorium by leaping from the third floor to the paving.

Joseph D. Firestone, fifty-five years old, manager of the Columbus (O.) Auto Sales company, was burned to death when a tank of his automobile exploded.

Carranza has ordered the immediate capture of the bandit Quevedo, whose depredations along the border have been made the subject of representations by the state department.

Light vessel No. 82, which was lost with its crew of six men in the big storm that swept Lake Erie Nov. 10, has been found lying in sixty-three feet of water more than a mile from her station.

HAVE NO LICENSE TO MAKE TERMS

Huerta Delegates Lack Discretionary Powers.

PREPARED MERELY TO REPORT

Envoys From the Mexican Dictator Go Into Conference Unequipped For Independent Action, the Impression That Huerta Had Bestowed Great Power in Their Hands Being Declared to Be Without Basis.

New York, May 19.—Senors Rabasa, Rodriguez and Elguero, Huerta's delegates to the Niagara Falls mediation conference spent one hour in a room at the Hotel Astor debating the advisability of receiving reporters. At the end of that time word was brought forth by their spokesman, Envoy Del Campo, that they would not receive reporters, but that they would issue a written statement.

Two hours later Senor Del Campo appeared with the following missive to the people of the United States:

"The discretion which the delicacy of their mission imposes, as an elementary consideration, upon the Mexican delegates to the conference at Niagara Falls has prevented them making any statements or declarations; but in their desire to meet the wishes of the press they beg to state that they have been most courteously treated by all officials and authorities of the United States and that they have received proofs of cordial sympathy from the representatives of various South American nations and that they go to Niagara Falls animated by the hope that an honorable and satisfactory conclusion will be arrived at at the meetings to be held there."

Have No Discretionary Power.

When the report that the delegates are armed with Huerta's resignation was taken to Senor Rabasa for confirmation or denial he declined to make any remarks. And he did the same regarding the report that they had come prepared to make certain concessions if the United States would secure money for the Huerta regime.

Contrary to the general impression that Huerta has bestowed great power in the hands of his representatives to act for him, it was learned from a Mexican official in this city that the delegates have been given practically no license for independent action and that they will go to the conference prepared merely to report to Huerta and deliver his decisions.

The three delegates with their families and attaches will leave for Niagara Falls at 6 o'clock this evening by a New York Central train. They have persisted in declining the state department's offer of a special train.

THE BOOMING OF A CANNON

Will Mark the Return of Colonel Roosevelt to Oyster Bay.

New York, May 19.—The Aidan, having had the honor of conveying Colonel Roosevelt from Brazil, is due at Quarantine late this afternoon.

It has been announced that the colonel will spend ten days at Oyster Bay and this vicinity and then sail for Madrid to attend the marriage of his son to Miss Belle Willard.

Oyster Bay is preparing to welcome her most distinguished citizen. Flags adorn many of the houses in the village today. A small cannon will bark twenty-one times when the colonel lands and a band and parading citizenry will escort him to Sagamore Hill. The citizens hope that the colonel will be able to say a few neighborly words to them at the finish of the parade.

He Returned Home Unexpectedly.

Connorsville, Ind., May 19.—William Browning, a laborer, was shot by Samuel L. Hamilton in East Connorsville. Hamilton returned to his house unexpectedly after starting on a fishing trip and found his wife struggling against the approaches of Browning. It is said. Two shots were fired by Hamilton with a shotgun. One shot struck Browning, but the wound is not serious.

Child Scalded to Death.

Lafayette, Ind., May 19.—Norman Edward Connelly, aged two years, son of Edward E. Connelly, died in a hospital as the result of being scalded by hot tea. He accidentally upset a cup of boiling hot tea, which terribly scalded his chest and arms.

Mellen Continues Testimony.

Washington, May 19.—Charles S. Mellen, ex-president of the New Haven railroad, resumed the witness stand today to continue his disclosures as to the acquiring by the New Haven of stock of the New York, Westchester and Boston company.

Ohio Coal Miners Strike.

Columbus, O., May 19.—Orders declaring a strike of all coal miners in Ohio have gone out from headquarters of district No. 6, United Mine Workers of America here. The mines have been closed since April 1 by orders of the operators.

DEMURE QUAINT LINES FOR THE SMALL PERSON

One is greatly tempted by these overblouse frocks; they offer such a wonderful chance for economy. The overblouse itself requires such a small amount of material that there is no reason why one should not have a one-piece dress instead of merely a separate skirt. The underblouse may be of net, chiffon or lace if the frock is intended for afternoon wear or if the frock is made of serge for street use, it may be of crepe de Chine or cotton voile.

The model shown in No. 8257 is developed in dull green taffeta for afternoon; the underblouse is of all-over net and the trimming bands have touches of the Futurist colorings to brighten things up a bit.

For this dress in size 36, 3 3/4 yards of taffeta will be required.

An unusually pleasing little party frock for the tiny tot is shown in No. 8330. It is a peasant, slip-on dress of flowered voile trimmed with pink little pink bows. The round neck, sleeves and bottom of the skirt are finished with a casing through which a ribbon may be drawn; if desired, the casing may be arranged at the Empire or low waistline.

For a child of 4, this pattern requires 1 1/2 yards of 36-inch material. No. 8257—sizes 34 to 42. Price 15c. No. 8330—sizes 1 to 6. Price 10c.

These patterns for sale by the Racket Store. L. F. Miller.

GOSSIP FROM THE CAPITAL

Bits of Washington News of Particular Interest to Hoosiers.

Washington, May 18.—At the request of Senator Shively and Representative Cox of Indiana, the war department has appointed Edward Kleespie of Jeffersonville to be chief carpenter at the quartermaster's depot at that place.

As a penalty for refilling a "bottled in bond" whisky flask, Theodore Brenner, a youth of Tell City, Ind., will have to pay $25 to Internal Revenue Collector Isaac Strouse at Terre Haute. Representative William E. Cox asked the treasury department to let the boy off with a lighter fine, but this was refused.

Representative Korbly of Indiana discussed rural credits legislation with the president. He is one member of the banking and currency committee who favors putting this legislation over until next session.

Miss Katherine Alvord of this city and Ensign Arthur E. Wills of Indianapolis will be married at Annapolis June 6. The prospective bride's grandfather, Elijah S. Alvord, formerly was prominent in Indiana political circles at Democratic state chairman.

She Had Red Burns.

The philanthropic lady was visiting a Glasgow slum and had just been ushered into a house where the good wife was engaged washing. Her endeavor was to elevate the minds of the poor, and she asked, "Have you read Burns?"

In answer the good wife bared her brawny arm and displayed a large red mark, saying: "There's wan I got this morn wi' the steam o' the pot b'ilin' over. But, after a', a burn's aye red!"

TORTURED BY STOMACH ILLS, HE FINDS MAYR REMEDY IN TIME

Frankfort Man Ends His Troubles
With First Dose of Treatment.

Walter Spray, of 1011 South Second Street, Frankfort, Ind., for a long time suffered from disorders of the stomach which caused him great pain.

After long and tedious efforts to find relief he at last tried Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy. The results, pleasing and beneficial, came right away. In telling of his experience he wrote:

"I took your treatment and will truly say that it did me more good than all the doctors did for me for months. Before I took your medicine I suffered a great deal, but since I took the first dose I have not had a bad spell. I feel that it is even more than you claim."

Letters like that come from all parts of the country. Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy is known everywhere because of its true merit. The first dose proves—no long treatment.

Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy clears the digestive tract of mucoid accretions and removes poisonous matter. It brings swift relief to sufferers from ailments of the stomach, liver and bowels. Many declare it has saved them from dangerous operations and many are sure it has saved their lives.

Because of the remarkable success of this remedy there are many imitators, so be cautious. Be sure it's MAYR'S. Go to C. E. Loertz drug store and ask about the wonderful results it has been accomplishing—or send to Geo. H. Mayr, Mfg. Chemist, 154-156 Whiting St., Chicago, Ill., for free book on stomach ailments and many grateful letters from people who have been restored. Any druggist can tell you its wonderful effects.

The Story of Waitstill Baxter

By KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN

Copyright, 1913, by Kate Douglas Wiggin

CHAPTER VIII.

On Tory Hill.

IT had been a heavenly picnic, the little trio all agreed as to that, and when Ivory saw the Baxter girls coming up the shady path that led along the river from the Indian cellar to the bridge it was a merry group and a transfigured Rodman that caught his eye. The boy, trailing on behind with the baskets and laden with tin dippers and wild flowers, seemed another creature from the big eyed, quiet little lad he saw every day. He had chattered like a magpie, eaten like a bear, torn his jacket getting wild columbines for Patty, been nicely darning by Waitstill and was in a state of hilarity that rendered him quite unrecognizable.

"We've had a lovely picnic!" called Patty; "I wish you had been with us!"

"You didn't ask me," smiled Ivory, picking up Waitstill's mending basket from the nook in the trees where she had hidden it for safe keeping.

"We've played games, Ivory," cried the boy. "Patty made them up herself. First we had the 'Landing of the Pilgrims' and Waitstill made believe she was the figurehead of the Mayflower. She stood on a great bowl and sang:

"The breaking waves dashed high
On a stern and rockbound coast and, oh, she was splendid! Then Patty was Pocahontas, and I was Cap'n John Smith, and look, we are all dressed up for the Indian wedding!"

"I shall have to run into father's store to put myself tidy," Waitstill said, "so goodby, Rodman, we'll have another picnic some day. Patty, you must do the chores this afternoon, you know, so that I can go to choir rehearsal."

Rodman and Patty started up the hill gaily with their burdens, and Ivory walked by Waitstill's side as she pulled off her birch bark crown and twisted her braid around her head with a heightened color at being watched.

"I'll say goodby now, Ivory, but I'll see you at the meeting house," she said as she neared the store. "I'll go in here and brush the pine needles off wash my hands and rest a little before rehearsal. That's a puzzling one we have for tomorrow."

"I have my horse here. Let me drive you up to the church."

"I can't, Ivory; thank you. Father's orders are against my driving out with any one, you know."

"Very well. The road is free, at any rate. I'll hitch my horse down here in the woods somewhere, and when you start to walk I shall follow and catch up with you. There's luckily only one way to reach the church from here, and your father can't blame us if we both take it."

And so it fell out that Ivory and Waitstill walked together in the cool of the afternoon to the meeting house on Tory hill. Waitstill kept the beaten path on one side and Ivory that on the other, so that the width of the country road, deep in dust, was between them, yet their nearness seemed so tangible a thing that each could feel the heart beating in the other's side.

Their talk was only that of tried friends, a talk interrupted by long, beautiful silences—silences that came only to a man and woman whose understanding of each other is beyond question and answer. Not a sound broke the stillness, yet the very air, it seemed to them, was shedding meanings, the flowers were exhaling a love secret with their fragrances, the birds were singing it boldly from the treetops, yet no word passed the man's lips or the girl's. Patty would have hung out all sorts of signals and lures to draw the truth from Ivory and break through the walls of his self control, but Waitstill, never, and Ivory Boynton was made of stuff so strong that he would not speak a syllable of love to a woman unless he could say all. He was only five and twenty, but he had been reared in a rigorous school and had learned in its poverty, loneliness and anxiety lessons of self denial and self control that bore daily fruit now. He knew that Deacon Baxter would never allow any engagement to exist between Waitstill and himself. He also knew that Waitstill would never defy and disobey her father if it meant leaving her younger sister to fight alone a dreary battle for which she was not fitted. If there was little hope on her side there seemed even less on his.

His mother's mental illness made her peculiarly dependent upon him and at the same time held him in such strict bondage that it was almost impossible for him to get on in the world or even to give her the comforts she needed. In villages like Riverboro in those early days there was no putting away even of men or women so demented as to be something of a menace to the peace of the household. But Lois Boynton was so gentle, so fragile, so exquisite a spirit, that she seemed in her sad aloofness simply a thing to be sheltered and shielded somehow in her difficult life journey. Ivory often thought how sorely she needed a daughter in her affliction. If the baby sister had only lived the home might have been different; but, alas, there was only a son—a son who tried to be tender and sympathetic, but after all was nothing but a big, clumsy, uncomprehending man creature, who ought to be felling trees, plowing, sowing, reaping or at least studying law, making his own fortune and that of some future wife. Old Mrs. Mason, a garrulous, good hearted grandame, was their only near neighbor, and her visits always left his mother worse rather than better. How such a girl as Waitstill would pour comfort and beauty and joy into a lonely house like his if only he were weak enough to call upon her strength and put it to so cruel a test! God help him! He would never do that, especially as he could not earn enough to keep a large family, bound down as he was by inexorable responsibilities. Waitstill thus far in life had suffered many sorrows and enjoyed few pleasures. Marriage ought to bring her freedom and plenty, not carking care and poverty. He stole long looks at the girl across the separating space that was so helpless to separate, feeding his starved heart upon her womanly graces. Her quick, springing step was in harmony with the fire and courage of her men. There was a line or two in her face—small wonder. But an "unconquerable soul" shone in her eyes, shone, too, in no uncertain way, but brightly and steadily, expressing an unshaken joy in living. Valiant, splendid, indomitable Waitstill! He could never tell her, alas! But how he gloried in her!

It is needless to say that no woman could be the possessor of such a love as Ivory Boynton's and not know of its existence. Waitstill never heard a breath of it from Ivory's lips; even his eyes were under control and confessed nothing, nor did his hand ever clasp hers to show by a telltale touch the truth he dared not utter; nevertheless she felt that she was beloved. She hid the knowledge deep in her heart and covered it softly from every eye but her own, taking it out in the safe darkness sometimes to wonder over and adore in secret. Did her love for Ivory rest partly on a sense of vocation—a profound, inarticulate divining of his vast need of her? He was so strong, yet so weak because of the yoke he bore, so bitterly alone in his desperate struggle with life, that her heart melted like wax whenever she thought of him. When she contemplated the hidden mutiny in her own heart she was awestruck sometimes at the almost divine patience of Ivory's conduct as a son.

"How is your mother this summer, Ivory?" she asked as they sat down on the meeting house steps waiting for Jed Morrill to open the door.

"There is little change in her from year to year, Waitstill—by the way, why don't we get out of this afternoon sun and sit in the old graveyard under the trees? We are early, and the choir won't get here for half an hour. Dr. Perry says that he does not understand mother's case in the least and that no one but some great Boston physician could give a proper opinion on it; of course that is impossible at present."

They sat down on the grass underneath one of the elms, and Waitstill took off her hat and leaned back against the tree trunk.

"Tell me more," she said; "it is so long since we talked together quietly, and we have never really spoken of your mother."

"Of course," Ivory continued, "the people of the village all think and speak of mother's illness as religious insanity, but to me it seems nothing of the sort. I was only a child when father first fell in with Jacob Cochrane, but I was twelve when father went away from home on his 'mission,' and if there was any one suffering from delusions in our family it was he, not mother. She had altogether given up going to the Cochrane meetings, and I well remember the scene when my father told her of the revelation he had received about going through the state and into New Hampshire in order to convert others and extend the movement. She had no sympathy with his self imposed mission, you may be sure, though now she goes back in her memory to the earlier days of her married life, when she tried hard, poor soul, to tread the same path that father was treading, so as to be by his side at every turn of the road."

"I am sure" there Ivory's tone was somewhat dry and satirical, "that father's road had many turns, Waitstill! He was a schoolmaster in Saco, you know, when I was born, but he soon turned from teaching to preaching, and here my mother followed with entire sympathy, for she was intensely, devoutly religious. I said there was little change in her, but there is one new symptom. She has ceased to refer to her conversion to Cochranism as a blessed experience. Her memory of those first days seems to have faded. As to her sister's death and all the circumstances of her bringing Rodman home, her mind is a blank. Her expectation of father's return, on the other hand, is much more intense than ever."

"She must have loved your father dearly, Ivory, and to lose him in this terrible way is much worse than death. Uncle Bart says he had a great gift of language!"

"Yes, and it was that, in my mind, that led him astray. I fear that the spirit of God was never so strong in father as the desire to influence people by his oratory. That was what drew him to preaching in the first place, and when he found in Jacob Cochrane a man who could move an audience to frenzy, lift them out of the body and do with their spirits as he willed he acknowledged him as master. Whether his gospel was a pure and undefiled religion I doubt, but he certainly was a master of mesmeric control. My mother was beguiled, entranced, even bewitched at first, I doubt not, for she translated all that Cochrane said into her own speech and regarded him as the prophet of a new era. But Cochrane's last 'revelations' differed from the first and were of the earth, earthly. My mother's pure soul must have revolted, but she was not strong enough to drag father from his allegiance. Mother was of better family than father, but they were both well educated and had the best schooling to be had in their day. So far as I can judge, mother always had more 'balance' than father and much better judgment—yet look at her now!"

"Then you think it was your father's disappearance that really caused her mind to waver?" asked Waitstill.

"I do, indeed. I don't know what happened between them in the way of religious differences nor how much unhappiness these may have caused. I remember she had an illness when we first came here to live and I was a little chap of three or four, but that was caused by the loss of a child, a girl, who lived only a few weeks. She recovered perfectly, and her head was as clear as mine for a year or two after father went away. As his letters grew less frequent, as news of him gradually ceased to come, she became more and more silent and retired more completely into herself. She never went anywhere nor entertained visitors because she did not wish to hear the gossip and speculation that were going on in the village. Some of it was very hard for a wife to bear, and she resented it indignantly, yet never received a word from father with which to refute it. At this time, as nearly as I can judge, she was a recluse and subject to periods of profound melancholy, but nothing worse. Then she took that winter journey to her sister's deathbed, brought home the boy, and, hastened by exposure and chill and grief, I suppose, her mind gave way—that's all." And Ivory sighed drearily as he stretched himself on the greensward and looked off toward the snowclad New Hampshire hills. "I've meant to write the story of the 'Cochrane craze' some time or such part of it as has to do with my family history, and you shall read it if you like."

"I should like very much to read your account, Aunt Abby's version, for instance, is so different from Uncle Bart's that one can scarcely find the truth between the two, and father's bears no relation to that of any of the others."

"Some of us see facts and others see visions," replied Ivory, "and these differences of opinion crop up in the village every day when anything noteworthy is discussed. I came upon a quotation in my reading last evening that described it, 'One said it thundered; another that an angel spoke.'"

"Do you feel as if your father was dead, Ivory?"

"I can only hope so. That thought brings sadness with it, as one remembers his disappointment and failure, but if he is alive he is a traitor."

There was a long pause, and they could see in the distance Humphrey Barker with his clarinet and Phiney Waterhouse with his bass viol driving up to the churchyard fence to hitch their horses. The sun was dipping low and red behind the Town House hill on the other side of the river.

"What makes my father dislike the very mention of yours?" asked Waitstill. "I know what they say—that it is because the two men had high words once in a Cochrane meeting, when father tried to interfere with some of the exercises and was put out of doors. It doesn't seem as if that grievance, seventeen or eighteen years ago, would influence his opinion of your mother or of you."

"It isn't likely that a man of your father's sort would forget or forgive what he considered an injury, and in refusing to have anything to do with the son of a disgraced man and a deranged woman he is well within his rights."

Ivory's cheeks burned red under the tan, and his hand trembled a little as he plucked bits of clover from the grass and pulled them to pieces absent-mindedly. "How are you getting on at home these days, Waitstill?" he asked, as if to turn his own mind and hers from a too painful subject.

hardly talk to God about them, much less to a human friend. Patty is my only outlet and I need others, yet I find it almost impossible to escape from the narrowness of my life and be of use to any one else." The girl's voice quivered and a single teardrop on her cheek showed that she was speaking from a full heart. "This afternoon's talk has determined me on one thing," she went on. "I am going to see your mother now and then. I shall have to do it secretly, for your sake, for hers and for my own, but if I am found out then I will go openly. There must be times when one can break the lower law and yet keep the higher. Father's law in this case is the lower and I propose to break it."

"I can't have you getting into trouble, Waitstill," Ivory objected. "You're the only woman I can think of who might help my mother. All the same, I would not make your life harder, not for worlds!"

It was almost impossible for Ivory to hold his peace then, so full of gratitude was his soul and so great his longing to pour out the feeling that flooded it. He pulled himself together and led the way out of the churchyard.

Virtue of Self Expression.

If children are allowed to give vent to all that is joyous and happy and spontaneous in their natures they will be infinitely more likely to blossom out into helpful men and women, instead of sad, suppressed, sad-faced individuals. Children who are encouraged in self expression through their play instinct will not only make much more normal human beings, but will make better business men, better professional men, better citizens, better men and women generally. They will succeed better and have a nobler influence in the world. Joy and fun are great developers, calling out our richest resources, educating our fuller powers.—Nautilus.

Chamberlain's Liniment.

This preparation is intended especially for rheumatism, lame back, sprains and like ailment. It is a favorite with people who are well acquainted with its splendid qualities. Mrs. Charles Tanner, Wabash, Ind., says of it, "I have found Chamberlain's Liniment the best thing for lame back and sprains I have ever used. It works like a charm and relieves pain and soreness. It has been used by others of my family as well as myself for upwards of twenty years." 25 and 50 cent bottles. For sale by All Dealers.

Spoiled.

In the early days of Johannesburg water was often very scarce. A lady who was staying at a hotel there one morning saw a bathtub half full of water standing outside her door and, thinking it was intended for her use, took possession of it. Later, however, some one came to fetch the tub and was extremely angry to find it gone. Then the lady learned to her dismay that she had taken all the water in the hotel, and that it was required for cooking. "It would not have mattered so much," said the angry servant, "had you not used soap!"

Whooping Cough.

"About a year ago my three boys Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the only one that would relieve their coughing and whooping spells. I continued this treatment and was surprised to find that it cured the disease in a very short time," writes Mrs. Alice Dalrymple, Crooksville, Ohio. For sale by All Dealers.

Guests of French Government.

Paris, May 18.—King Christian X. and Queen Alexandrine of Denmark have arrived here to pay a two-day official visit of courtesy to France, during which they are to be the guests of the French government.

For a Torpid Liver.

"I have used Chamberlain's Tablets off and on for the past six years whenever my liver shows signs of being in a disordered condition. They have always acted quickly and given me the desired relief," writes Mrs. F. H. Trubas, Springfield, N. Y. For sale by All Dealers.

WILL ASK FURTHER TIME FOR HEARING

Statistics show 86 per cent of the people attacked by typhoid fever, (drink well water) all this not because water can not be brought to us at a price practically within the reach of everyone, but because we must pay rates that will produce dividends on $240,000, though the plant could probably be reproduced with $100,000,—when we dwell on these facts we can begin to realize the importance of taking time to get our cause properly before the Commission.

filed with the Indiana Public Service Commission as soon as the city attorney could prepare them and that no one can influence the commission to push the cases more rapidly than it desires to do so. He stated that the city attorney had taken up the question of securing assistance and while the committee was not empowered to employ assistance a tentative agreement had been made with Mr. Barnes whereby he would give assistance and had been working on the case. He further stated that the letter from the commission was the first information the committee had received as to when the hearing would be set or what question of law would be involved. He then presented a resolution to employ Mr. Barnes.

Before the resolution was read, however, Mr. Kasting read the letter from the commission and said that he thought further time should be asked for. He spoke about the importance of the case and said that he did not doubt but that the commission would agree to extend the time in accordance with the wishes of the attorneys for both the city and the Seymour Water Company.

Mayor Ross asked Murray to take the chair and he supplemented his former statement with a few remarks. He said he had been informed that the question to be argued was whether or not the Commission could alter a franchise granted before the Commission was created. He read letters from the Commissioners in Wisconsin, New Jersey and Illinois, stating that in those states they had power over all utilities. In Ohio the question had not been clearly settled, he said. He recommended that an attorney who had specialized on franchises be employed.

Andrews replied that the city attorney had made some investigation about the point raised by the Mayor and that the Commission had said informally that the Indiana constitution was different from that of other states in that it provided that contracts made prior to the enactment of laws by the state legislature should not be affected by such subsequent laws. He said that the questions involved were points of law and that he favored the employment of local talent rather than to hire an out of town attorney whose fee would be considerably more.

The city attorney in reply to the statement of the Mayor that the committee had not used diligence in preparing for the case said that he had been assisted by both the Mayor and the members of the committee and could not see where anyone should be criticised. "We proceeded without delay," he stated, "and filed the complaints as soon as we could and presented the matters as best we could. We took up the questions with several engineers and investigated their ability and availability so that we could secure them when needed. I took upon myself to confer with local counsel and this hearing is not forced upon us at this time and we can have until June or July to prepare or if it necessary."

"As to the suggestion of the Mayor," continued Mr. Kasting, "such a plan would be agreeable to me if we can get other cities to join in with us."

Upon the vote to employ Mr. Barnes the following voted in the affirmative: Hodapp, Andrews, Steinwedel and Ahlbrand. "Nays" were: Rockstroh, Ley and Murray. Rockstroh said he was not opposed to hiring additional legal assistance.

W. R. Bedel, of Woodstock, is critically ill.

Mrs. Pierce McCarty, of Indianapolis, a former resident of Seymour, is critically ill. Her condition has been serious for several days and her recovery is doubtful.

Mrs. Ida Sandau has returned from an extended visit through the west. On the return trip east she came by the way of El Paso, Texas, and said that all the railroad bridges along the Mexican border are guarded by U. S. soldiers. The residents of the border cities are much concerned over the situation and a large number of troops have been stationed at each city where there is danger of an uprising of the Mexicans.

Captain O. A. Schrarr, who has charge of the Salvation Army work in Bedford, arrived in the city today, and he is interested in raising funds for the Home and Foreign Missionary work. Captain Schrarr has been in charge of the Army work in Bedford for three years, and has been able to accomplish much good. Any assistance given him will be highly appreciated and put to the work of reaching the unchurched people.

Missionary Social.

The members of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the M. E. church extend to the public a very cordial invitation to meet with them Wednesday afternoon, May 20, at 2:30, in the church parlors. Miss Alling, a missionary from Japan, will be their guest. An interesting program has been arranged. The Standard Bearers are especially asked to be present.

HEALTH OF ARMY IS IN LITTLE DANGER—GORGAS.

Soldiers' Condition Better Than In Spanish War, Says Surgeon General.

Surgeon General William C. Gorgas, U. S. A., discussing in the Engineering Record the sanitation problems that will have to be faced by the United States army in case of an actual invasion of Mexico, says the army is now in a much better position than it was during the Spanish-American war. There will be a considerable proportion of green men to be taught camp sanitation as well as given military instruction.

"Much of this will be given in concentration camps. Fortunately, most of the officers of the volunteers will be men who are impressed with the value of sanitation in the field. They and the regular officers and older soldiers will quickly instruct the new men in the habits so essential to health."

"There exists, then, a yeast to leaven the whole that was absent in 1898. Since that eventful year the officers of the medical department of the army have been studying and practicing military hygiene and sanitation with brilliant results, as demonstrated in the two large camps in Texas. Here 10,000 men lived for a year at a time with a sick rate lower than that at the average post."

"Better yet, the officers of the line, impressed with the value of the lessons in camp sanitation, have been enthusiastic supporters of these advances and are hardly second to medical officers in their knowledge and experience in such matters. The army then, is in an entirely different position than at the outbreak of the Spanish war. The 20,000 cases of typhoid that then puzzled and distressed the people of this country will not reappear as specters in our camps as a sign of sanitary incompetence."

"Anti-typhoid inoculation, which has been in vogue in the army since 1909, and which so efficiently protected it in 1913 that there was but one case among the inoculated in the army of 90,000 is to be trusted to keep our camps free of this disease so fatal to armies of the past."

"Yellow fever is robbed of much of its terror by the fact learned in 1898 by Reed and his devoted band, which taught us the means of transmission and consequently the manner of avoiding it."

"Thus forewarned we are forearmed and enter any campaign confident of our ability and in the sanitary training of the line to feel that we can exist in the campaign in a state of 'hygienic competence' that the disabilities of the war will be limited, for the first time in the history of the new world, to wounds and that disease will not kill more than bullets."
